

Essay on Pollution in 200 words

Introduction

Pollution is a major concern for our planet. It refers to the introduction of harmful substances or pollutants into the environment, causing damage to living beings and their natural environment. There are different types of pollution, such as air, water, soil, and noise pollution.

Air pollution occurs when harmful gases and particles fill the air. Causes of air pollution include vehicle emissions, industrial processes and burning fossil fuels. Breathing in polluted air can cause health problems like asthma, heart and lung disease.

Water pollution occurs from dumping waste, factory discharge and chemicals into water bodies. This harms aquatic life and makes water unsafe for drinking.

Soil pollution arises from chemicals, waste, and improper disposal methods. Pesticides and industrial chemicals are major contributors. This disrupts plant growth and can contaminate the food chain.

Noise pollution comes from loud activities like traffic, loudspeakers and industry. It disturbs peace, concentration and affects health, causing stress and hearing problems.

Steps to control

Using cleaner fuels and adopting eco-friendly transportation methods is essential. Properly treating and disposing of waste helps combat water pollution. Avoiding harmful chemicals that pollute soil and reducing loud activities can make a significant difference in controlling pollution.

Conclusion

Raising awareness and adopting eco-friendly practices can effectively combat pollution, securing a better future for all.
